The Psychoanalytic Society announces our new Public Information Service. Highly trained, experienced psychologists are available to speak on a variety of topics of psychological and current interest.

In addition to being psychoanalysts, our speakers are professors, authors of scholarly and popular publications, and researchers in a variety of areas. They have an interest in communicating their expertise to the public, and many are experienced in speaking to radio and television audiences and community groups.

A sampling of current topics includes:

1. adolescent depression and suicide
2. surrogate mothering
3. the impact of AIDS on dating behavior
4. raising a child in the city
5. eating disorders
6. terrorism and travel
7. substance abuse

Topics and formats (including panels and discussion groups) can be arranged to meet your specific needs.

The Public Information Service is one of the activities of the Psychoanalytic Society, a professional, scientific and educational organization composed of graduates and faculty of the New York University Postdoctoral Program in Psychoanalysis and Psychotherapy.

Requests for speakers can be made to: Judith Lasky, Ph.D., 212-595-4352.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

The Public Information Committee
